

Tim Oliver

Senior Partner, Plexus Law
CEO, the Parabis Group

Tim is the dynamic CEO of the fast-growing Parabis Group, a professional service organisation which includes Plexus Law of which he is Senior Partner. Plexus Law, based in London, is a top 100 law firm and is a specialist professional indemnity and large loss legal practice.

Tim has spent many years acting for large insurance companies, managing complex and sensitive liability claims with a particular specialism in public liability and employer liability claims. He is well known in the defendant insurance market for his innovation, and his highly respected team works with insurance companies and the Lloyds market to deliver advice across the whole field of insurance law

While Tim continues to act for the insurance market, he also heads a dynamic team focused on travel claims and is considered a leading figure in the travel industry. Tim has led the way for major tour operators to outsource their claims handling business, as well as providing co-ordinated travel industry expertise on the outsourcing of health and safety work.

Tim has a significant body of published work, as well as being a regular contributor to the insurance and legal trade press. He co-edited the tenth and eleventh editions of 'Binghams & Berrymans' Motor Claims Cases' and is co-author of Oliver and Dingemans 'Employer's Liability Cases' (Butterworths 2003).

Tim is currently President of the Forum of Insurance Lawyers (FOIL), Vice Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Shooting Star Children's Hospice, a school Governor and also an Elmbridge Borough Councillor.
