Argent Liability Adjusters Moves into Bigger Base in South West

Argent Liability Adjusters' Bristol team will have a little more elbow room soon as they move into new offices doubling the size of their current base.

The move marks the growth of the company's Bristol operation since it first set up in the region some seven years ago. It also signifies the ongoing integration of Argent and Carmichaels operations following last year's tie up between the two firms which saw Argent's parent company take a controlling stake in the Carmichaels business.

The new offices, which will accommodate Argent's six South West-based professional staff and three support staff, are on the same business park site – The Courtyard, Bradley Stoke – as Argent's current premises.

Neil Ventris, Managing Director of Argent, said: "We've seen steady and positive growth from our operations in the South West as this move demonstrates. Our team will now have a little more room to breathe and we also have space for further growth, if required."
